Select Poetry.

THE TERRIBLE DRINK.

Oh! the drink, the terrible drink,
Making each town and city a sink
Of misery dire, and fearful to tell
Of the numberless victims sent to hell.
Swearing,
Killing,
Crimes no lack,
The terrible drink makes night so black;
The curse of youth and disrepitage,
Adding to thirst instead of assuage;
Continual drink the drunkard's crave,
Till it drags him down to an early grave.

Oh! the drink, the horrible drink!
See the child from its father shrink
As he staggers home from the night's debauch,
His soul on fire from the demon's torch.
Blindly,
Wildly,
Stumbling along,
Crazed with drink, intent on wrong;
And even the dog with a bark and bound,
Growls at the man as he gropes around!
This is the picture deny it who can,
Of the downward steps of a fallen man.

Once he was free from the vice, but he fell.
Fell, like the angels, from heaven to hell—
Fell, to be mocked at, scoffed at, and beat,
Mingling with filth in the horrible street.
Pleading,
Cursing,
Dreading the worst,
Drinking still deeper yet greater the thirst
Till besickens and falls, degraded and low,
And death is preferred to his abyss of woe!
Merciful God! in the depths of despair
Thine own image from a drunkard's grave.

Correspondence.

For the Republican.

The Lemp Post.

BY HUGH JAMES BENFIN.

"As early as nine o'clock the guests began to assemble, and, by ten o'clock, all were present. They consisted of the neighboring settlers and their wives and children. There were in those days, none of those artificial distinctions of social classification, which afflict even your republican society, in these days of modern degeneracy. There was there and there no aristocracy of blood, or brain, or wealth. The sole criterion was that laid down by Holy Writ, 'By their fruits shall ye know them;' therefore none of the settlers were excluded from this feast in celebration of the mother's birth day.

"Now don't sneer and turn up your nose and say you wouldn't associate with such low trash. Examine your heart a little, and see whether you would be fit to take part in such a gathering, with your false airs, your died whiskers, your flattering tongue, your envious heart and your mean prejudices."

Here the old man looked so hard at me that I was unable to bear his gaze, for I felt that he had made out a pretty strong case against me, so I meekly closed my eyes. The old man, on seeing this, gave such a terrible roar that I quickly opened them again; when he exclaimed:

"Going to sleep, are you? If you were sick and I were your physician, I would know how to soothe you to rest. I would just begin to tell you of faults, and in two minute's time you would be perfectly unconscious, wrapped in the arms of Morpheus. I wonder doctors never discovered this great principle, for men are all alike in this respect. Your great preachers now, fully understand it, so, instead of telling their congregations of their own faults, they tell them of other people's sins. This keeps them wide enough awake.

"But here I am quite off the track' as the engineer said when the engine ran over the bank. 'I must endeavor to confine myself to the course marked out for me.'

"The room of Mr Jones' house was filled to overflowing. There was no constraint, no stiffness, no fear of violating any artificial forms of etiquette. The only politeness they knew of, or care for, was that natural easy politeness, which flows, like a spring of refreshing water from the hill side, right out of the fountains of affectionate hearts—hearts free from malice and envy, and full of good will toward all. It was a pleasant gathering! Aye, very pleasant! No fashionable party glittering with splendor, no guests arrayed in costly magnificence, could vie with this gathering in the reality of its enjoyments, could come together with hearts so light and happy, as did these plain, simple back-woodsmen, in their home spun suits, with their plainly clad, but kind and comely wives and children.

The men were gathered together in one corner talking about crops, clearings, game and topics of a similar nature; the women at the opposite side of the room, occupied with their knitting and their sewing, engaged in an interesting conversation in which such topics as gardens, washing, wearing, housekeeping and babies were fully discussed. Some scandalous occurrence which report said, had taken place in a neighboring settlement, was related to regale the intellectual appetite of the ladies, who heard it with numerous 'do tells!' and 'law sake's!' for Mrs. Grundy, who, in these days, has attained such portly proportions, was alive then, and, although but a mere infant, was quite a vigorous child. The children were engaged in various games of sport, and hence were scattered promiscuously both within, and without the house.

At last it was time to begin to prepare the dinner. The room was too full for this purpose, so the children were induced to engage in a game of Blind Man's Buff without the house. There was a little boy by the name of Johnny Burton, about eleven years of age, who frequently was the unfortunate who had to be blindfolded, and, as he went groping about, pretending not to see, he always stumbled upon and caught little Sallie, and seemed to enjoy it, too. As she was a remarkably spry, active little girl, the other children wondered how it was, that, as nobody else could catch her, Johnny could always succeed in clasping her in his arms and holding her fast; but there are many things in life not to be explained by the philosophy of children nor adults, of the ignorant nor the wise. As I overlooked the game, I felt strongly inclined to come down from the lofty place where I was perched and join in the game, it seemed to be so enjoyable. However, I concluded to 'hold my position,' as the prisoner said when he was remanded to the county jail for six months.

During this time John Jones and the men who were with him, walked out to look over his clearing, and to give their opinions concerning the weather, for, in those days, nearly every man and woman was a weather seer and could tell on Monday just what kind of weather there would be during the week, a power their descendents have only inherited inversely, being able to tell, at the close of the week, what kind of weather they have had during the week past. While the men were thus walking, talking and prophesying, their wives were busy in roasting, boiling, frying, spreading the table, and the et ceteras which only women, and those male feminines, professional cooks, know anything about. In this case, however, the old adage about many cooks spoiling the broth, proved to be a mistaken notion, for the banquet they spread would have done honor to a king—it was, indeed, worthy the noble men and women who were to share it.

For the Republican.

"Momus" vs. the County Institute.

MESSRS. EDS:—It is difficult to follow such a wandering fellow as this "Momus." He puts into his article such a medley

One, after reading "Momus" as the "Reporter of the County institute," can see, by his last, how his feeble understanding has wandered. His article on the Institute shows some work. This is the natural effusion of his soul. "A fool hath no delight in understanding, but that his heart may discover itself." In this last article he pours out the bitterness that lurks in his little heart. It was bad enough for him to feel as he does—to talk is worse—to write is worst of all.

There are a number of falsehoods told in it. He must be stirred up considerably. And then the style. He ought not to criticise teachers on grammar, or any one on composition, after such an effusion.

It is unnecessary to reply to this writer in all he writes. It is enough to show the community what a genius of evil this pretentious critic of the Institute is, and he tells enough of his true nature in his article. He charges me with stooping. Almost anybody "stoops" to hit a rattlesnake. He asserted that the Lecturer on Geology said that "he had addressed over one hundred audiences, and found none to appreciate him."

This you repeat. I affirm that it is a deliberate falsehood. And you repeat it as if resolved to make it pass by dint of repetition. Your representing the Lecturer thus shows your recklessness. It can be proved by good witnesses, that you have invented this.

With regard to the prejudices against the County Superintendent, I am informed it arises from a relative of "Momus" having been refused a license by Prof. Magee.

The profane part of the article in which a ridicule is made of the doctrine of the Trinity, I shall pass over. So with the idea of the writer on Genesis, for the good Book admonishes: "Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest they be like unto him." I therefore cannot discuss Geology or Theology with a person like him.

The twaddle in which "Momus" indulges, is only worthy of notice as revealing the motives of his assault on the Lecturer. The story is briefly told by him as follows:

"Leave three-fourths of the citizens of a little town who are inferior to you in intellect, and divided from you by an almost impenetrable wall of mountains, to live as christians according to their capacity for rendering the Scriptures."

Remember this is a new subject altogether. It does not belong to a criticism on Geology. But it introduces the motives of this young man in his attack.

Some "Christians" have been attacked—"Disciples" or "Cambellites," you mean. And you have undertaken to act as their champion, by an assault upon S. J. D. You do not tell all of the facts. Suppressing part of the truth is one way of lying. These mild "Christians" never attack any one, unless it is their interest to do so. Then the rest of mankind have to look on with fear and trembling. It is intolerance to reply to these people. A traveling Evangelist may publish his "water Gospel" anywhere, and insult an deride other sects in Howard, and it is all right; but to answer him is to disturb the peace of the village.

And these are the men who have influenced you to berate me as the "Lecturer of the Institute." You suffer yourself to be converted into a mere instrument. Besides, you indulge in so much falsehood. Can you not write without lying; or is the habit so fixed in you? You intimate that three-fourths of Howard are "Christians" of this body. This is untrue. There are as many, if not more of other churches, as I am informed by citizens. And if these "Christians" were in the majority, they have no right to suppress free discussion.

"Divided from you by an almost impenetrable wall of mountains."

Here is another instance of your bad habit—your native weakness. Is there no pass in the mountains from Nittany Valley to Bald Eagle at Howard? Is there not a good stage road through that gap? How then can you be so blind as to write such stuff. You must be "mad" over your friends, the "Christians," to not see a wide and excellent gap in a mountain near by you.

A little advice to you young man. Improve your manners—this will help your morals. Adhere to the business for which you are fitted. Attempt not to criticise another Institute. Your brain is not large or strong enough for such work. Do not imagine that because you have been employed about a printing office, you can attack and write down people with impunity. Before you get through with all that will canvass your merits, you may get tired of it.

Avoid profanity. Shun lying. Abhor the last as your besetting sin. Do not attempt to blacken people who have done you no injury. A lying tongue, God hates. Never have the wickedness again to mock the sublime truth that there are "three persons in one God-head." It is shocking to hear or to read.

Institutes will be held, and lecturers will address them. You have no right to slander them. Men have a right to discourse on religious topics, and to choose their own subjects. And it is entirely unbecoming in a young man like you, to abuse and slander them for doing so.

Beside this, do not boast as you have done of your moral goodness. Every one can see that no one who has a proper moral sense, could write such impious, untrue and profane statements as you do. "Cease to do evil, learn to do well."

Mr. Nashy in a Despondent Frame of Mind.—The Members of the Kentucky Legislature Refuse to Stand by Principle.

LOUISVILLE, (wich is in the State uv Kentucky), Feb. 3, 1870.

I don't know that there really there's any more goose in livin on this earth. The Fifteenth Amendment is adoptid, and a nigger Senator will take the seat in the Senit wunst okkepied by that marter, Jeffson Davis. It's about time for me to go hentz—I have no desire to rename. I would like to stay long enough to consoom the contents of a red-headed barrel in the back room uv my blessid grosery in Noo York, into wich I haint, ez yet, put no water, and probably I will. I think I shel go home, shut myself up in that back-room, drink that partikeler barrel dry, and fall dead across it. Like Sardanapulus, my kingdom being gone, my funeral pile shel be my throne.

I came on to Kentucky to aid by my counsel the Dimocrisy uv that State, in the present crisis. The nigger Revel hez a seat in the Senit uv the Yoonited States, and uv course, no while Kentucky Dimocrat kin so degrade hirself ez to set in that body beside him. I expected, uv course, that Garret Davis and McCreery, wood immejitly resine, and ez no native born Kentucky Dimocrat wood take the place, and ez Kentucky could not afford to be representid by a Ablishnist, it okkurred to me that possibly there mite be a chance for me. I am a Northern Dimocrat by birth, and Northern Dimocrats have allus done sich work for the Southerners, ez the Southerners countid too dirty for em. The only thing wich cood stand in the way wuz the fact that I left Kentucky a year ago, and am now a citizen uv Noo York. But wat uv Kentucky—I have been in Noo York politics enuff to be able to swear to anything.

At all events I went on to my old State, and got together a caucus uv the Dimocratic members uv the Legislacher to consider this thing.

The Chairman uv the ceucus remarkt that the signs of the times indicated trouble. Kentucky, of that nigger wuz admitted to the Senit, wuz virchually disfranchised, for uv course Davis and McCreery cood not remain in their seats beside him. No Kentucky gentleman wood digrace his proud State by practically takin to his buzzum a male member of an inferior race-uv acknollegin his equality, and workin quietly with him. Never! Sooner than see this he wood be willin to see the States further South in oggerate another struggle for their rites, in the event of wich, Kentucky, troo to the yoonyun, ez before, wood preserve a strict and dignified nootrality by sellin horses and provender impartially to both armies. He hoped the gentlemen wood express their views freely.

A gentleman from the eastern part uv the State offered the following preamble and reculushen:

Wareas, The Senit of the Yoonited States is about to admit to a seat in that body a nigger: and

Wareas, No Kentucky Dimocrat wood degrade hisself by sittin beside a nigger; therefore

Resolved, That Hon. Garret Davis be instructed to resine to-wunst.

The resolocshune passed to-wunst, without a dissentin voice, and were sent by telegraph to the Senators at Washington, after wich I begged permission to offer a remark. I sed that uv course no Kentuckian cood be found to take them places made vacant by the two eminent men who wuz about to leeve the Senit, but nevertheless Kentucky cood-ent afford to go unrepresentid. Is there no northern man uv Kentucky principles who will rush to the front at this crisis?

Twenty gentlemen sprang to their feet. The one who got the eye uv the chairman remarkt that Kentucky shood allus be represented by Kentuckians, Davis and McCreery cleerly ought not to stay. They shood resine to wunst ez a protest agin this outrage, but ef Kentuckians cood be found who wood accept the places they should be found. Takin em ez they wood ez a necessity, there woodent be the stigma attached to em that there wood be to the present incumbents of they shood remane, and possibly sich mite be found.

The Chairman doubted whether there wuz a Kentuckian who had so little respeck for hieself. Ef a Kentuckian wuz selectid it shood be from the membership uv the Legislacher. He felt that it wuz the dooty of some two uv em to sacrifice theirselves on the alter of their State. It wood be a bitter degradashun for a man filled with the memories uv the past, to choke down materal pride, and take a seet by a nigger, but some one must do it. He would sejest that the members proceed with system in this matter. Let us designate, by ballot, our wishes. Let us vote for a man to fill the place to be made vacant by G. Davis, and let the member upon whom this duty devolves, accept the sacrifice in the troo Kentucky sperit. Gentlemen, prepare your ballots for a successor to Davis, and get ready to shed a friendly teer over the fate uv the man upon whom the degredashun falls.

This wuz agreed to, each member remarkin that no matter who wuz chosen, there wuz no law to compel him to be electid and set beside a nigger.

The members each voted; the votes were counted out, and, horror! each member bed precisely one vote, and the leosenis uv the hand-writin on the tikkits made it painfully certin that each member bed voted for himself! Ez my hopes wuz busted I coolent help singin out that a more self-sacrificin body uv men I never saw!

Then commenst the most fearful squabble I ever witnest. Gentlemen got by the ears, and pistols wuz drawd, but jist ez they were gettin ready for a seckond ballot, a dispatch wuz received from Davis and McCreery, statin that while they appreshiated the degredashun uv their situashun, and felt it keenly, nevertheless, ez Kentucky must be represented in the Senit they rather thought they wooden resine at all! Ef they knowed their own hearts they thought they'd hold on to their seats. They might as well be sacrificed as anybody.

The gentlemen mostly remarked "H—l!" as this epistle wuz read to'rm, and disperst without the formality uv an adjournment.

I hevn't ez much faith in Dimocrisy ez I yoost to hev. I sposed that when that nigger wuz finally admitted, that every Democrat in the Senit wood resine; but wat do I find? Not one hez done it, and whole Legislachers uv Democrats are willin to take seats beside him!

Wat kin we expect when men are so recreant to their manhood? Is it any wonder that I am tired uv life? I shel go home to Noo York, townust.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

W. W. BROWN, A. BLAIR HUTCHISON, } EDITORS.

Terms $2 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEFONTE, PA.,

Wednesday Morning, Feb. 23, 1870.

ADVERTISING.—The Bellefonte Republican has now a Circulation as Large, if not Larger, than the Democratic Watchman, and fully 600 more than any other Republican paper published in the County. Our Merchants and Business Men will please make a note of this.

BARGAINS! BARGAINS!!

The Bellefonte "Republican" and the "American Agriculturist."

We are now prepared to offer to the people of Centre county, a Great Bargain for the coming year. It is this: To every subscriber who will send us $2.00, in advance, we will send the

and the

for one year. Of the REPUBLICAN we need not speak at present.

The American Agriculturist is a work that no farmer, nor house keeper should be without. As a farm-journal we think it has no superior in the world—certainly none in the United States. It is issued monthly, and the subscription price is $1.50 per annum. By clubing with the REPUBLICAN you save fifty cents, and secure more good reading matter than you can obtain in any other way for the same money.

We hope the reading public will avail themselves of this very liberal offer.

AT the REPUBLICAN office is the place to get your Sale Bills, &c., printed in the best style, and at reasonable rates.

BEN BUTLER has been indulging in coarse witticisms and the radical organs are nearly tickled to death.—Standard.

Not so fast. Not tickled so much at Butler's witicisms, but at the fact that he literally skinned a copperhead.

GEN. JIM BURNS, of Lewistown, has legislated out of office, one set of Democrats and another set in. Jim is a big "ingen," and cares nothing for his party, so that his tool is sharpened.—The affair has raised a general row in the camp of the Democracy of that county.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.—The cackling of the Bellefonte Republican over its Gordon jobber. Gordon jobbers have got to be such a common institution over this way as to excite neither comment nor surprise, much less a matter of boasting.—Hollidaysburg Standard.

That spasm reads very well on paper, but we happen to know that there is not a half-medium Gordon press in all that country. If you have one, why don't you say so?

TEXAS.—Last week the Texas Legislature ratified the Fifteenth Amendment. It also ratified the 13th and 14th Amendments. Well done Texas. Ungrateful as you have been in the past, we now can forgive you all, and welcome you back to the sisterhood of States. You wanted to go out of the Union; but you cost us so much, we could not afford to let you go. Now that you have done so well, and are safely back, see to it, that you stand by the Union, the Constitution, and the Republican party, and your happiness and prosperity will be complete.

RINGS.—Fred. Kurtz of the apple-butter organ at Centre Hall, labors very hard to convince his readers that no such thing as the Court House Ring exists in this county. We suggest to Kurtz that he apply to Capt. Smith, Col. Love, Samuel J. Herring, Esq., and several other reliable Pennsvalley Democrats for further information.

Be honest, Fred, Tell the people the whole truth. You may just as well do it, because the Ring have determined that you have had about all you will get unless it may be perhaps a ring through your nose. They say they do not care so much for your grust; but your interminable rooting has worn out their patience. When that time comes, Fred., then you will realize fully the meaning of the phrase,

"Root hog or die."

The American Agriculturist.

We have received, within the last six weeks, quite a number of subscribers for the American Agriculturist, together with the REPUBLICAN. In every case we have ordered the Agriculturist to be sent. On Friday last we received a letter from Mr. S. J. A., of Pine Grove Mills, stating that he had not yet received that paper. The mistake or the delay is not ours. As above stated, we have ordered the paper in every instance without delay.

If there are any others who subscribed for the Agriculturist and have not yet received it, will confer a favor upon us by reporting at once.

Let it not be understood that we place the cause of delay upon Orange Judd & Co., our object being merely to state that delay in the case of S. J. A., has occurred, and we wish to ascertain who is to blame.

The American Agriculturist should be in the house of every farmer and housekeeper in the county. Our offer to furnish the REPUBLICAN with the Agriculturist, one year for $3 00 in advance, places it within the reach of every one. Let our people send in their orders without delay. Orange Judd, the Editor of the Agriculturist, is one of the best men in the United States, and if mistakes or delay should occur, an explanation is all that will be necessary to have them corrected. Send in your names.

Meek Returned--A Glorious Trio.

P. G. Meek returned, on Saturday last, from Harrisburg, where he had been for several days, looking, no doubt, for more material to invest in his new brick building or in his "water-power" establishment. Gray evidently made it count during the two years he represented this county at Harrisburg. We mean, of course, that he made it count for himself, for we have not been able to discover anything he accomplished beneficial to his constituents.

We do not know what particular business Mr. Meek had in Harrisburg last week; but presume he would see his friend James Burns, and we almost imagine we can see them boo-hooing over Meek's defeat, and over the numerous nice little speculations spoiled by said defeat. Perhaps he went down to see Jacob G. Meyer, to urge him to do something and not waste the whole session in doing nothing. And it may be, who can tell, that Jacob and Jas. and Peter entered into partnership for the balance of the session, agreeing to divide the plunder, share and share alike.

It is also very probable that they, there, determined that Jacob G. should be re-elected next fall, provided he would give all his influence in support of Peter G. for the Senate from this district. No doubt Jacob G., aided by the indomitable Burns, and a few greenbacks—just a few—can control Fred Kurtz, and this would make Meek's nomination pretty certain

They all know that Kurtz does not like C. T. Alexander, nor does he have a very friendly feeling for S. T. Shugert; so this trio, no doubt, resolved that they must have Kurtz, that they must steal him away from the Ring, or rather from a portion of it.

Fred. will bite, no doubt of it, if they only bate the hook right. And we think, judging from Meek's pleasant looks when he returned home last Saturday, that he, and Jacob, and Burns, understand the situation, and have Kurtz and, through him, the Pennsvalley Democracy all right.

One thing is certain, Meek did not go to Harrisburg for nothing. Let the Ring and its Senatorial aspirants be on their guard. In the meantime, we hope Jacob G. Meyer will, if he can do nothing else, proceed, without delay, to raise a class in music. Do something. Anything is better than nothing. Prepare to sing. Sing—Do, ra, me, fa, sol, la.

BEHIND TIME.—We clip the following news item, from the Philadelphia Press of the 21st inst.:

"There is on trial this week, in "Bellefonte, a case involving the title "to thousands of acres of land in Pot"ter, Elk, Forrest, Centre, Cameron, "Clinton, and Mifflin counties, which "formerly belonged to the Potter es"tate. The plaintiff in the case, is "General James Potter, of Lewis"town."

We are happy to inform the Press that there is no such case on trial in this place this week. Your news is behind time.

At our Court, three weeks ago, the "Potter Will Case," above referred to, was to have been tried, but the plaintiff, Gen. James Potter, took a non-suit, which, in our opinion, ends the case.

Fred. Kurtz, however, states that Gen. Potter intends to move to Ohio, and after being in that State sufficiently long to become a citizen, intends to bring his suit in a United States Court. Why it is necessary he should go to Ohio and become a citizen thereof, Fred does not state; but we presume Fred. knows.

THE President recently withdrew from the Senate, four treaties with Indian tribes, which were before that body for confirmation. Among them was one, the terms of which included the sale of the reservation in Southeastern Nebraska, on which the Iowa and Sac and Fox tribes are located. This valuable tract the chiefs had been persuaded, while in Washington, and under various evil influences, to sell to a railroad company, for not over half its value, they to receive—as the treaty expressly stipulates—a present of land for each, in the Indian Territory. The treaty was a perfect outrage on the bulk of their tribes and their new agent, Thomas Lightfoot, of Pennsylvania, they so represented to the President and the Senate. We are, therefore, glad to see that the President, on this information, has withdrawn the treaty.

LICENSE OR NO LICENSE.—The temperance men of this State, have introduced, into the Legislature, what is called the "Local Option Bill," which leaves the license question to the votes of cities, boroughs, townships and counties, to say, by their votes, whether they will have "license or no license."

Our true temperance men are not satisfied with an enactment of that kind, knowing full well that it would not be worth the paper on which it was written, as the Supreme Court of this State, in 1847, decided an Act of the same kind, passed previously, un constitutional.

FROM the 23d annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad, we learn that the earnings of that road for the last year, were $17,250,811 73. The expenses for the same period amounted to $12,203,267 60. The net earnings of the company were $5,047,544 13.

The earnings of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad for 1869, were $3,262,704 29. Expenses for same period, $2,368,109 13, leaving the net earnings $894,496 16.

The Bible.

The higher courts of Ohio have decided that Christianity is part of the common law, and that exclusion of the Bible from the public schools is violative of such law. The opinion is seconded by the sentiment that it is the duty of the State to care for the intelligence and morals of the people, and that it is unlawful to strike down any of the means which the world recognizes or facts prove essential to good government. It is difficult to meet this question in the right spirit, on account of the intensity of the feeling stirred up by religious discussion. But reason should prevail. We look upon the decision of the Ohio courts as proper. It does not even hint at sectarian teaching. This is left to enthusiasts, to those whose reasons are not so free as their passions and prejudices. By many it is supposed that the question just decided is the precurser of a host which Catholicism threatens to drive down upon Protestantism. It is not our purpose to inquire whether this be true. If it is, Protestantism should not lay claim to this decision. If it is not, Catholicism should not repine at it.—The State must exist. Religion is free to exist. Let this, however, be said, the Bible should never be driven from our schools of instruction at the command of any sect or any party. In itself the Bible is not sectarian. It is the focus of all sects. All cluster around it as they would gather around God in the end. When interpreted by the light of sect, when perverted by prejudice, when corrupted by ignorance, then complaints against its introduction into the common schools might, with some plausibility, be heard. But, looking upon it as Divine law given to assist our understanding of the inner law which we are slow to discover, early habits of perusal should become one of the first elements of education. Or, again, looking upon it as a repository of quaint history, as a cabinet of the purest and best English, as a work unexcelled for its poetry and pathos, it can never be over-valued as a text book. Why, then, should it be expelled? Reason cries out against it. We suspect the obstinacy that insist upon its removal.—Phila. Press.

Coal and Tobacco.

Dr. Derby, Hygienic lecturer, at Harvard University, after a thorough chemical analization, has demonstrated that gas from anthracite coal is a narcotic poison. Many persons who use anthracite coal in cast iron stoves, are frequently effected with a peculiar kind of headache, dizziness and confusion of ideas, which have frequently been falsely attributed to the use of tobacco. Anthracite coal being of great density, when burning, evolves carbonic oxide gas, which all chemists know to be an active poison. By burning in an open grate, a large portion of this gas passes off through the flues; but when used in cast iron stoves it passes through the heated iron and becomes an active, deadly poison, and it is a matter of surprise that more persons are not killed by the use of anthracite coal in cast iron stoves, than are.

Although bituminous coal produces more dirt when used, yet it is a demonstrated fact that it is much more conducive to good health. It has also been demonstrated that the base of gas from anthracite coal, and the base of nictine produced from American-grown tobacco, are identical. Such being the case, the health of the human family would be greatly benefitted by the banishment of both anthracite coal and tobacco from our domestic circle.

MR. COX, a member of Congress, accused Gen. Butler of "lecturing," the House, and having voted at one time for Jeff Davis, and that his conversion was very sudden. Mr. Butler in reply said that he disclaimed all intention of "lecturing" the House and desired once for all to put a bar against the analogy between Saul of Tarsus and himself; he had heard it nineteen times and a half in the House. There were three things which he thought might be omitted hereafter because the country understood them; first, that he had voted for Jeff Davis, second, that he had got a sudden conversion: and third, that he had not been in the Republican party as long as some other people; all that was true. He had no doubt that in the old times there were men who stood by Judas and against Paul, because Judas was the oldest apostal. [Laughter.]

For the Republican.

MESSRS. EDS.:—In your paper of the 16th inst., appeared an article headed "Coal Monopolies," to which we ask permission to reply, for the following reason: First, if what co-operator alleges is true, that "the coal consumers of Bellefonte are imposed upon," then our dealers outside of B., and in fact farther east on the Railroad line, are more exhorbitant than Shortlidge & Co., but from experience in the "club-together-plan" he proposes, we are enabled to show your correspondent that one investment in the way he suggests, would convince himself and friends, that they would pay a higher rate, nine times out of ten, than the dealers ask, and at the same time give the latter license to charge more exhorbitant prices.

A number of the citizens of our neighboring town—Howard Borough—entertaining, like "Co-operator," a belief that they could save money by purchasing at the mines, found their coal when delivered, cost them 45 cents more than it was retailed by Messrs. Lucas & Bro's. This firm has given us access to their files, and we here sum up from freight manifests and bills of lading, the cost to the dealer and their profits, first pointing out an error of "Co-operator" of stating the freight to be $2.25 per ton of 22,47 pounds, when as all business men know, the railroads compute freight by lbs. and not by the ton, either gross or net, and to correct him by adding one tenth to his figures, the amount of freight, per ton, even if his statements were true, would be an average of $2,75 per ton; but consuming clubs could not take the average of the rates at the mines, or the changing of freight tariff, for, on account of miner's strikes, rush of trade on the railroads, &c., coal has fluctuated this winter, about as much as gold on Wall Street, N. Y. Your "Co-operator's" plan would prove abortive, like ours, for at a time when Shortlidge & Co., would be stocked with coal @$8,80, his order at the mines would find coal $6,50 @ $6,75, and cost on delivery, $9,25 @ $9,50. From examination of three shippers bills at Lucas & Bro's., we sum up the following statement:

Nov. 16. Shak'n Coal p. ton, gro. w.	$4 25
" 22. Bear Valley, " "	5 50
Dec. 16. " " "	5 50
Freight on the first shipment,	2 25
And on the remaining two,	2 50

making the dealers profit on the first retailed at $7,50 per net ton, of 50 cts on gross weight, plus 75 cents 240 lbs. excess of net ton; on the last two shipments their profit at $8,50 per net ton was 50 cents per gross, and 25 cents for 240 pounds excess.

But the above profits of $1,25 and $1,35 are subject to deduction for labor in unloading, wastage and freight agents cummission of 60 cents per car—say about ten per cent. The market report of Shortlidge & Co., show but from 35 to 50 cents advance of what we pay, which, no doubt, is occassioned by the difference in freight from here to B. We do not write this in defence of coal dealers, but more from the spirit of "live and let live," and if dealers in all things else were as fair we would have no room to murmur.

MARSH CREEK, Feb 19, 1870.

Cox vs. Butler.

The following is the Globe report of the recent tilt between Mr. S. S. Cox and Gen. Butler which has excited such lively interest. It will be seen that no reprosch for indulging in abusive personality can justly apply to Gen. Butler:

Mr. Cox—I want to say, Mr. Chairman, after listening to this debate, that it is the largest debate on a small matter that I ever heard. [Laughter.] Gentlemen have undertaken to run this matter of economy by saving candle-ends and cheese-parings, while they vote down resolutions seeking for information as to millions of expenditures of this Government in the Navy Department. Yesterday I sought to offer such a resolution inquiring for details as to an expenditure of millions. Yet here we waste days and perhaps shall waste weeks, in discussing small matters, when immense amounts are wasted and unaccounted for.

I see before me the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Butler) who is here on this side of the House to honor me with his attention.

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts—I could not hear you at my seat.

Mr. Cox—It has been charged by the gentleman from Nevada (Mr. Fitch) that the gentleman from Massachusetts ran away from this Congress and from his guardianship of the interest of Virginia for the purpose of making money in his profession. I defend the member from Massachusetts. He never ran away. [Laughter.] He would not run away as a soldier, and he would not run away as a statesman. He is always here when there is trouble. I say now, in his defence, that I believe his motion is made in pefect good faith. He would, if possible, save this small amount of mileage in the interest of this republic. He loves the people of this country. He would not take mileage either in currency or in gold. He would stand by economy on this little matter. But why did he not stand by his colleague (Mr. Dawes) the other day on a matter connected with these large expenditures in the Navy and other departments? Why do his political associates on the other side refuse to allow us information upon these matters when we propose to obtain it by resolutions of inquiry?

More than that, I defend the honorable member from Massachusetts against the insidious assault made on him by the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Farnsworth). What does the gentleman from Illinois mean when he intimates that the gentleman from Massachusetts gets money outside of Congress? I would not stand it if I were the member from Massachusetts. [Laughter.] I think it peculiarly fortunate that the Democratic party, represented in an humble way by myself, can defend one who was formerly an honored and distinguished associate, who even went further than his party friends in standing by the cause of the South in perilous times. If there is one gentleman whom I love to defend more than another, not only in his military, but in his economical career, commencing with the Dutch Gap Canal and running through all his conduct, connected as it is with his noble, moral, high-toned principles respecting the policy, of this Government, it is the gentleman from Massachusetts. [Here the hammer fell.]

—Mr. Butler of Massachusetts—Mr. Chairman, I move to strike out the last word; and I would be glad to have distinctly understood the ground upon which I have proposed the pending amendment.

Mr. Eldredge—I hope order will be restored so that we may hear the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts—I shall take care that the gentleman shall hear every word I say here.

Mr. Eldredge—That is what I want.

Mr. Butler of Massachusetts—At first I desire to get out of this all there is of argument to the prejudice. I have moved merely at the mileage and not at the compensation of members. I think any man who is fit to be here is fit to have $5,000 for his service; and I do not know but more.

Why, Sir, is the fact that I am able in my profession to earn something to help myself with used as an argument why the people should pay more than they ought to those who have no ability to earn anything elsewhere to take care of themselves? [Laughter.] Now, I desire to say further, that I have no wish to cut down the salary of members. I state again that the mileage operates unequally, and therefore unjustly, and if any gentleman will move for a fair sum to be appropriated to pay the actual expenses of members in travel, I will consider whether I can vote for it. And I am glad on this great matter of economy—for here is half a million to be saved—there can be found no argument against it, either by the gentleman from Illinois or by any other member, than insinuations against me that nobody dare speak out loud. As to the vituperation of the member from New York (Mr. Cox) he will hear my answer to him by every boy that whistles it on the street, and every hand-organ, "Shoo, fly: don't bodder me!" [Long continued laughter and applause.]

A Strange Story.

From the Lowisville, (K. Y.,) Commercial, we learn that Kriel, who suffered death—or was supposed to have done so—by hanging, after being pronounced dead by the attending surgeon and buried some ten hours was, resurrected and taken to the office of an eminent physician of that city and by copious bleeding and the use of the galvanic battery, was brought back to life again after describing the hanging burial and resurrecting, says:

"The galvanic battery was applied, and, horrible, and wonderful to relate, in less than fifteen minutes the warm blood began to course through his chilled body, and at last the eyes were opened. The students stood appalled and could hardly realize the extent of the demonstration before them. One of them spoke to Kriel, asking him, "Are you sensible?" The eyes answered expressively, and his lips opened ineffectually, for no speech came forth. Stimulants were poured down the throat of the revived criminal, and in less than an hour after he had been placed in the surgery Kriel sat up and asked them, "What have you done? Am I alive?"

The consternation, and yet the professional delight of the spectators were loudly expressed. The experiment of a reckless class of students and an able experimentalist has resulted in the resuscitation of a man who had been hung a short time previous. Steps were immediately taken to save the life of the wretched man. Justice had been satisfied by the public execution, though life returned. Why should they deliver up what had so providentially and wonderfully been restored? None of Kriel's personal friends were notified. Strangers disguised him, furnished him with means, and by daylight a man weak and tottering, but firm and immovable in his demeanor, crossed the river, and was last seen by a watchful, silent friend, who kept near him on the train leaving Seymour, Indiana, on his way to an unknown but, it is to be hoped, better future.

THERE is now visable, a spot on the sun so large that it can be plainly seen through a piece of smoked glass.

ELBOW BROKEN.—On last Friday, Mr. Gutherie, had his arm fractured and elbow broken, while at work at Long & Co.'s camp.

CRITIC.—A correspondent in the last Watchman severely criticises the proceedings of the late Rebersburg Sunday School Institute.

MANGLED.—A man by the name of Dally, who was at work at John Ardell's camp was recently fatally injured by several logs rolling over him.

UPSET.—Mr. N. Wolf and lady while driving through the Milheim narrows, were thrown from their buggy, but did not receive any serious injury.

MAKE YOUR RETURNS.—Persons who have been notified to make returns of their income will hand them in to Jas. H. Rankin, before the 1st of March.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.—A Sunday School Teachers Association has been organized in Ferguson township, and promises to be of considerable benefit to the teachers.

CAN'T SEE IT.—Mr. Pendleton of Ohio thinks it won't pay him to lecture in this place. He now posseses over half a million of dollars in greenbacks and still wants more.

ON Sunday, 13th inst., at the "Eagle Chapel," near Curtin's Station, 13 young persons were baptized in conformity with the rites and ceremonies of the M. E Church, Rev. Butler, of Milesburg officiating.

LEFT.—We are creditably informed that over one hundred mechanics have left this place since the 1st of August last. Of course high rents and high taxes had nothing to do with their going.

A PAPER of a small but elite circulation published in this place, says the new street now being constructed along the bank of Spring Creek will be of great advantage to fishermen. We are happy to learn that it can be used to some purpose.

JOSEPH WEBSTER, of Lycoming county, Pa., on the 11th inst., caught four foxes. Joseph is considerable of a fox hunter, but he will have to practice some years yet before he can equal Sampson of old in the business, who captured five hundred in one day.

THREE men in Williamsburg, Blair county, Pa., went into Dr. John Fay's office and drank from a bottle they supposed contained brandy. The Dr. coming in informed them that they had swallowed tincture of Aconite. Antidotes were promptly given and their lives saved.

WIND AND WATER.—A wind mill in this place run by "water power," last week received a sockdolager between wind and water, from one of its friends, which nearly sent it to grass, and may result fatally to its vital organs. A counsel of savans was immediately held but their decision has not been divulged up to our going to press.

MERCHANTS JOURNAL AND NEW YORK AND PHILADELPHIA PRICE CURRANT.—A weekly journal, gives the market price of every article used in a civilized community, besides being well filled with a variety of useful reading matter. It is well worth the price of subscription, which is $2,00 per annum. Address, Watson & Co., No. 14 South 7th street, Philadelphia, Pa.

AMPUTATED.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. Daley, Postmaster at Philipsburg, who recently submitted to a second amputation of his leg, is rapidly recovering. The first operation was performed immediately after the battle of Cold Harbor. The second operation was recently executed by Dr. Geo. L. Potter, of this place. Mr. Daley was a brave soldier and we hope he may live to a grand old age.

BURGLARS hereafter will give Jersey Shore a wide birth. Last week some of the fraternity visited that rural village and after entering several dwellings and blowing open safes, &c., and getting nothing for their trouble rallied on the Postoffice, where they found but a few dollars in pennies and mutilated currency. In disgust they left the place and tramped towards home not having realized cash enough to pay their railroad fare.

REVIVAL.—The protracted meeting held in the new church at Umpire, in Huston township, by Rev. Holmes, Pastor of the Bald Eagle Baptist church, terminated on Sabbath evening, Feb 13th. It was a season of refreshing as we learn from our reporter, and many sinners, from the hoary-headed man of three score years and ten, down to the tender youth of ten summers, bowed at the common alter and found peace in believing. Twenty-one were baptized by immersion, and five received into the church by experience; making in all twenty-six added to the church. May they all prove faithful.

B. & S. S. R. R.—Twenty years ago, who would have thought, that a Railroad would some day be built from Bellefonte to Snow Shoe? The man who would have predicted it would have been considered a lunatic and sent to the insane Asylum. Nevertheless the road has been built and the cars have been running more than ten years. The Snow Shoe country has been developed—coal mines opened—and scores of our citizens made wealthy. The Road under the Superintendence of our fellow citizen Daniel Rhoads, is, we are informed, one of the best paying roads in the State. One thing we can vouch for i. e. there is no better management on any road in the whole country.

Recently a Telegraph line has been built from this place to the terminus of the Road, which is of incalculable value and another triumph of science and American enterprise. James Antis, jr., is the operator at the Bellefonte office, is a very clever young gentlemen and understands his business well.

PHILIPSBURG ITEMS.—Peter Mock, a brakeman on the freight train, had his arm broken in two places while engaged in coupling cars.

—Albert Owen presented a very handsome communion service to the Presbyterian church last week.

—Mr. T. D. Adams, has a contract to furnish the Pennsylvania R. R. Co., with one thousand tons of ice.

—A scrimage took place between Allen Nason and another bellicose gentleman resulting in complete demoralization to the latter individual.

—A spark from the chimney reduced a boarding house to ashes at Adams & Johnson's saw mill recently.

—Some youths with fantastic clothing and blackened faces, entered the house of Mr. Bumgardner and so frightened one of his children that it remained in convulsions during the night, followed by a severe illness.

A MERITORIOUS ARTICLE.—We are tired of this idea of "puffing" humbug medicines that are constantly thrown into drug stores, and are merely an imposition upon community. But, when an article comes into the market that is really worthy of comment, we are happy to make public acknowledgement, trusting that some benefit may arise therefrom. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., is the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and we take pleasure in calling attention to it because we know it to be an article, and a sure cure for that loathsome disease, Catarrh. It is sold by most Druggists, or may be obtained for Sixty Cents through the mail by addressing the proprietor as above.—Cleveland Herald. v2n7-2t.

SNAKES.—One of our citizens, who boards on Bishop street, and does business on High street, discovered a huge snake crawling on the pavement, on last Monday afternoon. Snakes being an uncommon production at this time of year, our friend was a little frightened, and as his snakeship showed a disposition to maintain his right to the free navigation of the side walk, our friend took to his heels, and by the time he reached his place of business was considerably demoralized, and under the impression that the serpent was still after him seeking a closer acquaintance.

Mr. Hahn is an industrious, energetic man, understands his business well, and invites through the columns of the REPUBLICAN, his friends and the public generally to call and examine his stock, before purchasing elsewhere.

CLINTON COUNTY ITEMS.—Theodore Tilton, editor of the N. Y. Independent, will lecture in Lock Haven, March 2d, 1870.

—The Lock Haven Dramatic Associa will give one of their entertainments, this week for the benefit of the poor of that place.

—Philip M. Price, of Lock Haven, some ten years ago donated to the borough of that place some five acres of land, which was fitted up at considerable expense, by the citizens, for Sabbath School pic-nics and other diversions. He now asks the borough to donate it back to him as he wants to dispose of it to a party of capitalists who wish to erect a tannery on it. Oh, Philanthropy where are thy charms, &c.

—Prof. A. G. Kaub, last week lectured in Lock Haven for the benefit of the poor.

—Hon. L. A. Mackey delivered a lecture in the same place last night, on the Life and character of Aaron Burr, the proceeds to go to the poor of that borough. Who wouldn't be poor and live in that place.

—Clinton county has resurrected the "Clinton County Agricultural Society." J. H. Orvis, Esq., of this place was present and made a speech, after which the resurrection took place. The society propose holding a Fair in the fall.

This society was organized in 1847, and held a county Fair in the fall of the same year, which after paying all expenses left some $300,00 in the hands of the treasurer, Farmer Dunn, since then no county Fair has been held in the county it being the first and last one.

—Wright & Winn, of Lock Haven have a steam portable brick machine which they guarantee to make forty thousand brick per day. Go in if you are wright and win.

—A grand masque ball came off at Lock Haven last week. We see published the names of some of the most influential citizens of that place as its patrons and getters up.

—Last Monday initiatory steps were taken by the M. E. Church of Lock Haven, for the formation of a young mens christian association. These associations are becoming quite prevalent. We would like to see a Young Ladies Christian Association established. Who will move in the matter.

PHILADELPHIA is lighted with gas at two dollars and thirty cents per thousand feet. Altoona is lighted with gas also, but at the rate of three dollars and fifty cents per thousand feet. To make gas for Philadelphia the coal is transported by rail about three hundred miles, for Altoona about one hundred. Why is the difference the wrong way?—Altoona Sun.

Bellefonte is lighted with gas at the rate of $4,00 per thousand feet. The coal from which it is made is transported fifteen miles. Why this difference?

THE following appointments were made by the United Brethren Conference at its last session in Johnstown: Altoona, Rev. William Wragg; Hollidaysburg, Rev. A. L. Knight; Tyrone, Rev. J. Medagar; Schellsburg, Rev. W. A. Jackson; Bellefonte, Rev. J. M. Smith; Johnstown, Rev. D. Sprek.

THE ADVANTAGES OF ADVERTISING.—The shrewdest business men the world over, have availed themselves of the facilities offered by the press for placing their business fully and explicitly before the public. The result has been without exception, largely to their advantage. Indeed, a large and successful business can hardly be conducted now without frequent communication with the public through liberal advertisements. Of course it is our interest to say so—but is it any less the truth because we say it? Do not live business men know it and prove it in their own experience? An advertisement is certainly a general invitation from a manufacturer or trader to the public to give him a call, and the small outlay which it involves cannot possibly be any great consideration to a business man. An advertisement judiciously worded, and inserted in the journal that will give it the greatest direct circulation to those for whom it is intended, will assuredly pay. Advertising columns are sometimes compared (rather irreverently perhaps) to Jacob's ladder, reaching from the earth of despondency to the heaven of success. There is much truth in the comparison, as all will admit who have tested the utility of making known their business in the newspapers.

DISTINGUISHED ARRIVAL.—Col. Isaac May, who now resides in Philadelphia, has been in our romantic town for the last two weeks. The Col. looks about as young and healthful as he did when he was a resident of this place five years ago. He is a member of the enterprising firm of Loeb, May & Loeb, and made the greater part of his princely fortune by selling good goods to the people of this county at reasonable rates.

In the early part of 1861, he was chosen by Governor Curtin and duly commissioned aid to his excellency. When the rebellion broke out, and President Lincoln issued his call for three months men, Col. May spent most of his time in Harrisburg assisting the Governor in his arduous duties. His urbanity and genteel deportment make him hosts of friends wherever he goes. The young men of the country, would do well to reflect upon this thought, and from Col. May learn the lesson so often inculcated by parents and teachers, that true politeness, and close attention to business almost invariably lead to fortune.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.—It is with pleasure we call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of James H. Rankin, Esq., and Samuel Irwin—Rankin & Irwin, Real Estate and Insurance Agents. Office upstairs over the hardware store of Irwin & Wilson.

Messrs. Rankin & Irwin are industrious energetic men, and have been very successful in disposing of quite a number of tracts of land, entrusted to them, at good prices. Persons having real estate to sell, or property to insure, would do well to employ them.

Bellefonte And Lewistown Rail Road.

Report of Chief Engineer Byers on Survey of Route Between Milroy and Bellefonte.

POTTSTOWN, JANUARY, 6th, 1869.

Mr. T. Milliken, Esq., Pres't B. & L. R. R.

Sir:—Allow me to submit the following report, with the maps, profile and estimate of the Bellefonte and Lewistown Rail Road.

Two months were spent in making an experimental survey, and about six weeks in making the maps, profile and estimate. The estimate was made from a paper location, with the exception of the first four miles from Milroy, and one mile near Potter's Mills. The location is marked with a red line on the maps, and commences at Milroy, the present terminus of the Mifflin & Centre County Rail Road.

You will see on the map that the line from Milroy to the foot of the first mountain, is a long straight line with the exception of a slight curve in leaving the Mifflin and Centre Co. R.R.

The maximum curvature is 14 degrees, and the maximum grade from Milroy to Foust's summit is 126 feet per mile. The maximum grade does not commence until after the line turns into Cox's Valley.

To avoid tunnel and heavy rock cutting in the narrows of the second mountain, the line crosses to the right bank of Laurel run, just before entering the narrows, and crosses back to the left bank after passing through the narrows. After the first crossing of the Bellefonte and Lewistown turnpike, the true location should follow the right bank of Laurel run, to a point near the old narrows. There it should cross back to the left bank.—The slopes being flatter on the right bank of Laurel run than on the left bank a cheaper and better line can be had.

A continuous grade of 126 feet per mile cannot be used from Milroy to Foust's summit, as the stream does not fall regularly, near the summit the stream falls at the rate of 100 feet per mile; through the "old narrows" at 200 feet per mile; where the line crosses the east branch of Laurel run to the turnpike, at 132 feet per mile, and from the first mountain to Milroy about 100 feet per mile. In the narrows of the third mountain, the line passes near an inexhaustable vein of iron ore.

There is no very expensive work after turning into Cox's valley, until the line passes through the narrows of the south mountain and across Triester's valley to the narrows of the seventh and last mountain.

The grade from the narrows of the sixth to the narrows of the seventh mountain, on the present location, is 1 foot per 100 feet; this must not be, as it requires the maximum grade 1 per 100 feet to be used from Foust's summit to Bear Meadow creek to get down.

The line from Potter's Mills follows the northern slope of the seventh mountain to Fleisher's run, with an embankment of 20 feet and cutting through a lime stone ridge with a cut of 30 feet at the deepest point. The material from this cut can be used in making the fills on either side.

At the crossing of Bear Meadow creek, the grade is level for a short distance, then ascends at 2 feet per 100 feet to the summit which divides the waters of Sinking creek and Spring creek. Tussey Mountain flattening off at this point into Penn's valley forms this summit.

The maximum grade from the summit to Bellefonte is 0.8 per 100 feet which gives about 20 miles of a line not exceeding 42 feet per mile.

It was thought by many persons that a line could be had by the way of Galbraith's gap and the Bear Meadows to Milroy on a better grade than by the way of Potter's Mills, but upon examining this route, I found that it would require an ascending grade of at least 100 feet per mile, to reach the Bear Meadows from Boalsburg and to descend the mountains passing through a gap of Long mountains, south of Foust's, and making Milroy a point, would require a grade of 250 feet per mile.

The line up Cedar creek is shorter than the Boalsburg route, but will be more expensive, besides requiring a heavier grade—having the summit to cross at the end of Tussey mountain. The line up Cedar creek could not possibly be more than a 1000 feet shorter using the maximum grade at 0.8 per 100 feet.

The alignment could be improved from Milroy to Bellefonte, but would add much to the first cost of the road. The maximum grade and curvature is not higher than used on other roads in this state carrying from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 tons per year.

For the cost of each mile you will refer to the profile. Below is the total cost of grading, masonry and bridge superstructure, also for iron, ties and laying track for 36.8 miles and other expenses:

Gradation, masonry, and bridge superstructure	$332,000
Iron, ties, and laying track	427,000
Depot and other buildings	30,000
Damages	50,000
Engineering	10,000
Total cost,	$849,000

In making the surveys for the Bellefonte and Lewistown R. R., I endeavored to do it with as little delay and expense as possible. To have made an instrumental examination of all the routes proposed, would have taken at least four months, and as the means are limited, I decided to survey the route I have reported. I do not hesitate to say that it is the cheapest and best that can be had, with same grade and curvature, between Bellefonte and Milroy.

Very Respectfully Yours,
J. M. BYERS,
Chief Eng'r.

THE inquiry how long it takes whiskey, at the most moderate rate, to kill, is answered thus: The average duration of life, after a commencement of the habit of intemperance, is—among mechanics, working and laboring men, 18 years; among traders, dealers and merchants, 17 years; among professional men and gentleman, 15 years; among women, 14 years. Those intemperate on spirits have a greater mortality than those intemperate on beer.

"Man, know thyself," said the heathen sage, and he uttered a goodly maxim. "Man, know thy God," says the Christian, and he points to wisdom far more sublime. Put the two together! to know ourselves in our weakness and dangers, and to know our God in his glorious strength and willingness to protect us, is to have the seed of divinest knowledge implanted in our breasts.

—A little reconstructed Southern girl, five years old, asked a colored servant, in the course of a theological examination, what the fifteenth commandment was. The reply that there were only ten commandments was scornfully received, and the child gravely announced that the fifteenth commandment was that the colored people should vote.

Women charm, as a general thing, in proportion as they are good. A plain face with a heart behind it is worth a world of heartless beauty. Men who have tried both, uniformly agree to this.

Agricultural Department.

Experiment in Wheat.

Mr. A. H. Wren, an intelligent farmer near Mt. Gilead, Ohio, communicates the following to the Ohio Farmer: "Having a field of some ten acres on a farm that had been hard run for several years, I concluded last fall to sow it to wheat and rye, so as to put it down in clover and timothy. I had it ploughed up middling early; about five acres of it designed for wheat, had twenty five two-horse loads of rotten barn-yard manure hauled on one and one-fourth acres, and spread on the top of the plowing and harrowed in with the wheat. The last week in September, before winter set in, I could see a great difference between that which was manured and that which was not. In March sowed the five acres to timothy; sowed no clover on the wheat, but before harvest, the portion manured was heavy set in clover, that and the timothy making a perfect mat; the clover seed, I suppose, must have been in the manure.

That portion manured produced double the wheat of the same amount of land in the field, also produced more pasture this fall than the balance of the five acres. The other five acres in the field I sowed late in rye. In the spring I sowed it to clover and timothy. The prospect for a crop of rye was not very flattering, and the last of March I had some twenty loads of new barn-yard hauled and scattered over about one acre; the result was, there was more rye on one acre than on the balance of the five, and the clover and the timothy much better set."

RED ASTRACHAN APPLE.—This apple makes a splendid appearance; is large, crimson in color, covered with bloom, juicy, acid; it is productive; and last, but not least, it seems entirely hardy in this State. It ripens here in July and is one of the first ready for market. It is juicy and rich; good for eating and cooking. It has our vote as standing first on the list of summer apples. The tree is a stout growing, though not as rapid as some. My trees were transplanted when three years old from the graft, and I commenced bearing the third year after setting, or six years from root graft. It is said to be of Russian origin.—Cin. of Western Rural.

HEAVES IN HORSES.—Seeing Spearment and other articles recommended for horses prompts me to mention my experience with another herb in the cure of this distressing and troublesome complaint. Feed no hay to the horse thirty six or forty eight hours, and give only a pailful of water at a time. Then throw an armful of well cured smartweed before him, and let him eat all he will. In all cases where the cells of the lungs are not broken down great relief if not a perfect cure will follow. I have seen a horse, with the heaves as bad as I ever saw, cured by one dose. Smartweed is valuable for many purposes, and should be laid away for use when needed.—Dr. Ransom.

The best remedy we know of for the chicken cholera is to keep fowls in a good dry sheltered hennery. When they are first attacked or show symptoms of the disease, give, as feed, Indian meal (cooked) red pepper, gunpowder and turpentine, mixed together. Put in a day's feed for a dozen or more fowls, a tablespoonful each of red pepper, gunpowder and turpentine, well mixed through the meal. Give them this food every other day for a week or so, and it will in most cases effect a cure.

Connected with the mill, and in operation at all times, is one of the latest improved

Lumber dried in a Coke kiln, is dried perfectly, and when worked and put up, will not

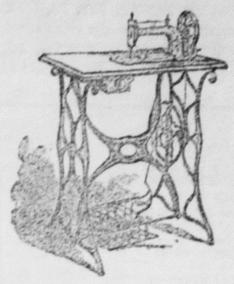
SEWING MACHINE.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE



Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufactoring machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a destined to win much favor in the HOUSEHOLD.

The machine which they now offer is quite light running, simple, fast, noiseless. Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,

QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING

are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work more cheaply, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it." They urge those wishing to purchase a machine, to examine all the other manufactures before buying, as it will, for itself, overcome all the objections to the other machines that can be brought against it.
